NEW YORK, April 17.—Prices averaged a little firmer this afternoon. Pennsylvania continued the leader of the market, and was perfectly supported at 143. Anaconda railled 2¼ from the lowest.

After a show of strength in the early trading, the prices of important issues yielded again as they did yesterday, under what was believed to be a supply of long steel. der what was believed to be a supply of long stock from important interests. Pennsylvania was exceptionally strong. Two houses, who often act for Standard Oil interests, were the heaviest buyers, and it was the belief in the crowd that the buying in the last two days has been for one of the Rockefellers. There is a disposition to believe that John D. Rockefeller, ir., has been the principal facor on the bull side of the stock. The room traders were aggressive on the bear side.

Government bonds were unchanged; other bonds firm.

2 p. m.—Stocks were steady at the opening today. Smelting advanced % Locomotive, %; Ice securities, ½; Nockel Piate, Canadian Pacific, ½; Pennsylvania advanced ½, and was the feature of the opening.

New York Air Brake declined %. During the rest of the morning session the market was irregular with Consolidated Gas a weak feature and the Canadian issues strong.

CHINA'S ATTEMPT TO IMITATE JAPAN

acter of the trading. The public is to all appearances not taking more than a passing interest in the course of prices and the commission business is reduced to the most meagre proportions. Prices generally hold strong and where changes occur they are within a radius of a small fraction only. This is more particularly shown in the case of a stock like Washington Railway common, in which the variations for a month past have not exceeded a full point. As this is one of the favorites that in the past has received much attention it indicates strongly the lack of public interest.

The trading today had no feature of

"granted concessions to foreign countries in years back to build railroads and to operate other branches of industry. They now want to emulate Japan, but the concessions they have heretofore granted cannot be abrogated."

Mr. Denby submitted figures to show the decrease in some of our exports from San Francisco to China. Flour, barley and canned goods, he said, showed the greatest decline. He thought that by a strict yet broad interpretation of our present code of immigration laws some of the existing conditions could be overcome.

Co-operation to Effect Remedy.

He favored the co-operation of the Departments of State and Commerce and Labor in meeting the conditions, In this he said that a representative of the Bureau of Immigration should be stationed as an attache to the legation in China and that consuls should not issue passports to Chinese without the author the of such immigration officer. He said that there had been many fraudulent papers issued by consuls and that when the Chinese immigrants came to this country the officials of the Department of Commerce and Labor detecting the irregularities subjected the immigrants to what they termed disgraceful treatment. This he said may have actuated to some extent the declaring of the boycott. It certainly did not help the service to suppress it, he added.

A majority of the Senate committee indicated that they agreed with the recommendations of Mr. Denby in this respect. Another hearing will be held on next Tuesday. ity of such immigration officer. He said
